Meeting Of Westery Town Council

Clean Bill of Health for September—Grade for Watch Hill Avenue—Investigation of Tree Destruction by Gas—Annual Bible School Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Westery town council was held Monday morning, President William L. Clark presiding, and these members in attendance: Councilmen Clarence Maxson, Maurice Flynn, William Cully, Horace Burdick, and Wayland Saunders. The report of Health Officer Lewis Stanton showed a clean bill of health during the month of September, and Chief Brandfield's report showed twelve arrests during the same period and four store doors found open.

A vote was passed, declaring that the avenues at Watch Hill known as Vannawannit and Neowan, and also Day street, should be given established grade. The matter was referred to the highway committee with instructions to procure plans and make report to a future meeting.

Attention was called to the absence of guide boards in certain sections of the town, as required by law, and it was voted to have proper guide boards placed at the junction of East avenue and Franklin street, and at the junction of the Watch Hill road and East avenue.

The petition of Vincenzo Serranturo for a pool room license was denied. J. Frank Champlin was granted permission to remove a building at Watch Hill, under the customary conditions, and James O. Babcock was permitted to use a hawser across the Watch Hill road, provided there be no interference with public traffic and that the town be relieved of liability.

Everett Barnes and Lewis Stanton, republicans, and Herbert M. Farrell and William Foley, democrats, were appointed supervisors for the coming election. Each party sent in a list of six names, from which the council selected the required two, who have had prior experience in the work.

Councilman Burdick called attention to the fact that the town had no laws on hand and that both are pending in the superior court. The one was that of Margaret and Thomas Conway, in which Everett Barnes, former town solicitor, is in charge. He said that as Mr. Agard was now town solicitor, that case should be turned over to Mr. Agard for further defense, and Mr. Kingsley be excused from further service. Mr. Burdick put his suggestion in the form of a vote and it was carried.

Councilman Flynn asked as to the status of the case of Courtland P. Chapman, in regard to attorneys. Mr. Burdick explained that Attorney Barney of Providence was in charge of that case, and recommended that no change be made. It was suggested that Mr. Kingsley also be retained in that case, but it was claimed that he was under employment by the town, and the time required by law in order to state judgment by default.

A bill was received of $43 from William L. Clark, for services rendered. Assistance rendered Mr. Kingsley, when town solicitor, and requested immediate payment, as the bill had been standing for some time. It was ordered paid.

President Clark of the special committee to investigate into the destruction of trees by gas, made report of progress. He said he had taken the matter up with Tree Warden Reuter and was satisfied that some of the trees had been destroyed by gas, but that others were killed from other causes.

The council voted to meet as a board of canvassers on the evening of October 28, as required by law. The bills for the month of September were approved and ordered paid. During the session it developed that the Elven Opera house management had named from Mr. Steady to Mr. Bliven and that Mr. Steady had been delinquent in the payment of regular license fees. Some of the councilmen insisted that the town of Westery had just claims against Mr. Steady, and the matter was referred to the town solicitor for report. The council then adjourned.

At the annual meeting of the Bible school of the Broad Street Christian church, the various reports showed that the objects of the school were better attained during the past year than ever before. Those officers were elected: Mrs. O. R. Smith, superintendent; Rev. John G. Dutton, president.

Offering for Chinese Pupils.
Rev. E. H. Smith spoke to the children of the First church Sunday school on Sunday. For ten Sundays now their contributions are given to the Inghok school in Poochow, China. For ten dollars a child can be supported one year in the Inghok school.
